Coordinated Courses

C1. Getting Graphic (10-12 credits) Hybrid

MTWTh 9-10:50 and online

Faculty: Cathryn Cabral, English, Cathryn.cabral@seattlecolleges.edu; jane Harradine, Humanities, jane.harradine@seattlecolleges.edu

How do our cultures of origin and mainstream culture inform the stories we tell about both ourselves and others? In this 10-credit coordinated course, we will be “getting graphic” with issues of equity and identity through reading and analyzing zines and graphic novels. We will explore what these media reveal about inequities in our society and about ways to survive and resist them. We will also reflect on our own origin stories and how they have been influenced by our experiences with social institutions, with language, and with cultures and communities.

Register for two of the following 5-credit classes:

HUM 105 Intercultural Communication 5 cr Harradine (CMST, US Cultures)

L2 Is Social Justice Dead? 10 credits, Online

Faculty: Olga Vishnyakova, Philosophy, olga.vishnyakova@seattlecolleges.edu; Jill Lane, Political Science, jill.lane@seattlecolleges.edu

Is Social Justice Dead? With some US political figures espousing xenophobic and racist rhetoric, we are at a point in history when it is imperative to examine the structure of American government, political ideologies and the philosophies behind them all. As some states pass controversial state bills that are being called exclusionary, presidential candidates have addressed social justice issues such as rights and duties in social institutions, the distribution of wealth, equal opportunity and equity of outcome. Now is the time to look at the nature and philosophical origins of democratic government itself.

Fulfills the following AA degree requirements: Integrated Studies and Individuals, Cultures, and Society

Prerequisites: none
